

Out of the Ricefields

A Georgetown Library Humanities Council grant project

Please join us for our fourth lecture:

Embodied Memories of Africa

Sunday, February 8th

2:30—4:00 p.m.

Georgetown Library, 405 Cleland Street

One of the hallmarks of Gullah-Geechee cultures in America is the high occurrence of African retentions among the languages, labor skills, crafts, art and religion still practiced today. Dr. Birgitta Johnson will explore how the music, song and dance of the Gullah-Geechee people of the United States embody the power of memory and tradition.
